

SHOUTING

SHOUT APPROACH

SHOUT will create new opportunities for Social Sciences and Humanities (SSH) where students, recently graduate professionals, and researchers will work together with SMEs and NGOs to develop solutions and generate value for civil society, public policy, business and service industries, through the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

WHAT do SDGs and SOCIAL SCIENCES HAVE in COMMON?

KNOW MORE HERE

The wider contributions of SSH to the global political, cultural, environmental and social developments, rarely get the attention they deserve. The policies aimed at dealing with these issues do not usually address SSH directly and thus fail to recognize and employ their contributions in solving them. The UN initiative to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals is an example where the policy implementation might fruitfully apply the potential of SSH.

GOOD PRACTICES BOOKLET

We provide examples of SSH students, researchers and graduates' involvement in sustainable innovations in industry or 3rd sector settings, as well as innovative solutions that demonstrate economic profit or its potential to demolish the myth of unprofitability of socially or environmentally sensitive solutions!
